The Fifth Commandment: "Thou shall not kill"

Am I convinced about the dignity of life from conception to natural death. Do I do all in my power to ensure respect for all people regardless of colour, creed, or class? Have I ever recommended an abortion? Do I respect my own life and guard it as something precious from God? Have I been involved in any violent act towards myself or others? How do I manage my anger? Do I use or cause others to use substances that will damage them or their health?

The Sixth Commandment: "Thou shall not commit adultery"

Do I watch what are called "TV" channels that undermine marital fidelity? Do I commit adultery?

The Seventh Commandment: "Points to Ponder". You must not steal

How honest am I in my dealings with others. Am I a good steward of what I have been intrusted? Do I do a full days work for a fair days wage? How well do I use my time? Do I pay back my debts? Do I practice the corporal works of mercy like helping the starving poor?

The Eight Commandment: You must not bear false witness against your neighbour.

Do I tell lies that effects the standing of another in the eyes of the public (Calumny) Do I make rash judgements about the motives of another? Do I allow myself to become jealous of other people? Have I committed perjury in a court of law? Have I revealed a secret that I had promised to keep?

The Ninth & Tenth Commandments: You shall not covet or desire your neighbours house or anything that is your neighbours. Do I put possessions before people? Am I consumed by seeking after that which I do not have? Am I generous to those in real need? Do I respect my neighbours household of wife/or husband? Am I content in my own affairs and state of life?
